

TODDLER TIMES

NEWS FROM BARNARD TODDLER CENTER • VOLUME 12 • SUMMER 2005

IN THIS ISSUE:

pg:

SUMMER READS

Some Toddler Center summer reading suggestions for toddlers and preschoolers:

When Sophie Gets Angry, Really, Really Angry
By Molly Bang

Blueberries for Sal (a delightful classic!)
By Robert McCloskey

Duck in the Truck
By Jez Alborough

Joseph Had a Little Overcoat
By Simms Taback

Bear and Ball; Bear and Kite
By Cliff Wright

Silly Sally
By Audrey Wood

Everybody Poops
By Taro Gomi

Goodnight Moon
By Margaret Wise Brown

And for the Parents

Take the Fight Out of Food
By Donna Fish

Me, Myself, and I: How Children Build Their Sense of Self, 18-36 Months
By Kyle Pruett, M.D.

RESEARCH

PARENTING YOUNG CHILDREN STUDY

155 mothers and fathers participated in interviews about being parents. This exciting study involves 32 student interviewers who gained valuable research experience. We are beginning to look at themes that arise across parents and will be posted on what we discover!

Toddler Center research fellow, Julia Eddington (Th PM her) presented her work from the World Trade Center children. She looked at and coded 70 videotapes of ing about the WTC disaster. Her presentation to the / was very well received.

n research fellows in the first 3 years of the program. All students who continue here for another year of training iter. Four of them are now enrolled in graduate school, ated from Barnard in May, and one is returning to work

JOINING US

Verine Golding-Cremoux joins us at the Toddler Center co-teacher (with Karina) for the MW PM class. She has all roles at the Toddler Center- student, assistant cher and parent. We're delighted she's coming back. Verine is currently pursuing graduate studies in School chology at NYU.

Nofi, a former Toddler Center student and current earch Assistant, will be joining us full-time as the new earch Coordinator. She will also be co-teacher in the Th class with Karina. Liz graduated Barnard in 2004 and is ently in a post-bac program in premedical studies.

a Bresgi is joining us as a full-time Research Assistant. e a TODDLER at the Toddler Center, she's all grown up and just received her BA in Psychology from McGill anada.

rest of us are still here – Tovah, Pat, Leslie and Sabrina!